AVOID COMMON REGISTRATION FRUSTRATIONS

- Type information requested in the registration materials to assure accuracy of name tags, etc. This will save you time at registration!
- Follow-up with the district or business office to make sure the check will be received on time.
- Do not FAX your materials! The only acceptable way to register for the Extravaganzas is e-mail.
- Photocopy all forms and correspondence for your records.
- Bring a copy of all school forms and conference registration records with you to conference.
- Write your chapter's name on the top of each form. This will reduce mix-ups and delayed registration. Do not abbreviate your high school name.
- Get the CELL PHONE numbers of every participant attending from your chapter!
- Invite your school administration officials to showcase FCCLA, HOSA and FBLA!
- Make registration checks payable to: Nevada FCCLA, Nevada HOSA or Nevada FBLA.

CONFERENCE CONDUCT

FCCLA, HOSA and FBLA have proud traditions of excellence! Our members are noted for their professionalism, hospitality, and manners. The very nature of these leadership events demand that all delegates conduct themselves as true "professional student leaders." FBLA, HOSA, and FCCLA have established guidelines for both dress and conduct that contribute to the learning experience. All delegates must understand that though having a good time is definitely encouraged, expectations are high and violations of accepted principles will not be tolerated.

Conduct Enforcement

Chapter advisors are primarily responsible for enforcing all conduct activities for his/her chapter members. Staff is available to assist advisors, when necessary, in the enforcement of conduct guidelines.

FCCLA, HOSA, and FBLA advisors work together to make sure the delegation adheres to accepted guidelines. All students need to understand that any advisor's request for improved behavior must be followed. Advisors are encouraged to act on all transgressions by any delegates and to be sure that the delegate's local chapter advisor is made fully aware of the violation.

Participation

All delegates are expected to participate 100% in the conference. This includes attending all general sessions, meetings, and workshops. It is not appropriate for members to be simply "hanging out" during leadership and workshop sessions. It is also important for participants to display excellent standards of professionalism and demeanor. Talking during sessions, refusing to participate, or disrupting sessions with distracting behavior is not a sign of a professional future leader.

Cell Phones

Students should be strongly encouraged to TURN OFF their cell phones during the hours of the conference. Cell phones on vibrate or silent mode will be accepted as long as they are not distracting. AT NO TIME is it appropriate for members to get up and leave a session to take a call. It is very disruptive to participants and rude to presenters when members and advisors are accepting phone calls and removing themselves from participation to accept outside calls and pages.
